

SCHWITTAY WAS A BORN FIGHTER

Marinette Assemblyman Who Died Sunday Had Aggres- sive Career

The sudden death of Assemblyman Albert E. Schwittay, 40, Marinette, brought to a close a spectacular career.

Graduated from the university law school at 22; suspended from law practice for alleged unprofessional conduct a year later; elected district attorney on an anti-graft platform while still disbarred; indicted for alleged misconduct by a grand jury he himself had obtained for others; barred from law practice for life by Judge E. Ray Stevens, Madison, 1903; elected sheriff of Marinette county, 1910; sued for $30,000 for alleged criminal libel, in his paper; indicted for alleged graft and perjury in October, 1910, then elected to the assembly by a large majority in November—this sums in brief one of the most turbulent and spectacular careers of Wisconsin.

Fighting Tactics Won Votes Schwittay succeeded because he was a fighter. He built his political career on a dogged, unrelenting warfare. He was never neutral. There are two factions in Marinette county, one for Schwittay, and one against him, and everybody belongs to one or the other.

Schwittay possessed a remarkable faculty of turning situations, no matter how discouraging, to his advantage. He was quick to find the open joint in enemies' armor.

His field was admirably adapted to his purpose. Marinette county has always been dominated by the great lumber companies. They sought to control local government, elect legislators and congressmen. Their friends were placed in office. The great Stephenson lumber interests had their headquarters there. Schwittay led the rebellion against Stephenson and Stephenson's adherents. Regardless of accusations against him, there were hundreds who firmly believed he was systematically persecuted.

Public sentiment was always at fever heat during his campaigns. What Schwittay's friends termed the "old gang" was at a disadvantage because of past continual activity in politics. His opponents had no new leaders to offer and they were unable to convince the voters that they were fighting Schwittay from disinterested motives.

Schwittay never gave his opponents a chance to breathe. He was disbarred while district attorney and applied in vain to the last legislature for a corrective bill. He talked of resigning as sheriff. His opponents charged that it was through fear; Schwittay refused to resign. Then he talked of running for the assembly. One of his enemies said he had to give up this idea because he could not get enough signatures. This aroused Schwittay's ire and he had his papers signed in forty-eight hours and was elected last November.

Man of Many Talents.

He was editor, printer, lawyer, politician and fighter all in one. His paper, The Searchlight, gave his enemies no rest. Like a storm petrel he cried death in a tempest, and he helped to create his own tempest.

A special election will be held. C. J. Johnson, one of Schwittay's friends and an assemblyman two years ago may be a candidate.

Mr. Schwittay was taken suddenly ill in Madison late Saturday night, Sunday noon he died. Pneumonia and a general nervous breakdown caused death, say physicians.

Several times witnesses against Schwittay in his numerous trials have disappeared. Last week deposition in his latest perjury charge were found missing. Early in December he was arrested in Detroit for alleged perjury and was on bail when death overtook him.

The funeral was held Thursday from the home of Mr. Schwittay's sister.

C. O. D. DELIVERY

Will Probably Be Next Improvement
In Parcel Post

Persons who have been interested in the operations of the parcel post system introduced the first of the month, and which is already in general use, will learn with pleasure that the postoffice department is contemplating an increase in its scope by which it will be able to meet the express companies in another line of business, namely, the delivery of merchandise C. O. D. It is said that this feature will likely be introduced next month.

The C. O. D. feature is expected to be a big boon to farmers, as through it they may order goods from the city stores by post card, not knowing what the bill will amount to. Upon receipt of such orders the stores will forward the goods by parcel post and the farmer will pay the rural carrier, who in turn will deposit the money in the postoffice which forwards it to the merchant.

Also, the farmer may send his products to the city, and the city carrier will collect for him. He will benefit by being able to set his price in advance, not being forced to take what is being offered him when he gets to the city.

The consignor will be required to fill out a receipt for himself and an order which serves as a money order application on the office of the department that forwards the amount to the consignor, less the postage and money order fee.

ARRANGE FOR BIG WOLF SLAUGHTER

Lake Laura Sportsmen Plan To Soon Rid That Section Of Pests

A party of Wausau gentlemen who hunt annually at the Deerfoot Lodge on Lake Laura, have this winter arranged for a wolf hunt to rid the country around that lake and Bucks toban of the animals that destroy so many deer, states the Eagle River News. They have secured the services of a wolf hunter with 2 trained wolf hounds who will make his headquarters at the lodge and work to rid the section of wolves which are more numerous this year than they have been since years ago.

The News says that the wolf hounds are two of the best in the country and that while hunting they pay no attention to other tracks, save the wolf track upon which they are on, and that they work slowly, giving the wolf a chance to double on his trail, and in that manner give the hunters, who follow, the opportunity to get a shot.

The party has secured the permission from state and local game wardens and according to a letter to game warden James Oberholtzer from Hon. Neal Brown of Wausau, in which the foregoing details were outlined, it is expected that the hunt will be inaugurated soon. The ravages upon the deer of Northern Wisconsin by wolves have reached alarming proportions during the late years, so great in fact, that the county has raised the bounty on wolves from $10 to $20, making with the state bounty of $20, a $40 bounty for each wolf killed.

TOMAHAWK HIGHS WIN FROM LOCALS

Friday's Basket Ball Game Is Fastest Of Season— Score 13 To 14

Friday night at the Armory was played one of the fastest basket ball games ever seen in this city. The contestants were the Tomahawk Highs vs. Rhinelander Highs. The final score was 13 to 14 in favor of the Tomahawks. Had there been two minutes more of play Rhinelander would have won the game.

Tomahawk's quintette got the jump on the local boys in the first minute of play and made three field baskets. Rhinelander then took a brace and Tomahawk did not receive another field goal during the entire contest.

During the last ten minutes of the game the Rhinelander team swept the visitors off their feet. Just as the whistle sounded the home players secured the last basket.

Tomahawk won this game on their ability to shoot free throws which the locals seemed unable to do. A large crowd witnessed the game. A preliminary was staged between two low or class teams.

Next Friday the Rhinelander Highs will meet the strong Antigo aggregation in this city. Tomahawk and Antigo played a very close game a short time ago and the contest Friday promises to be full of interest. The Antigo and Rhinelander girls will furnish the preliminary.

TIMES QUIET IN WESTERN COUNTRY

Chas. Stevens Says Past Year Has Been Dull In Spokane And Seattle

Charles Stevens, a former Rhinelander lumberman, departed Wednesday on his return to Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, after a few days stay in this city attending to business details.

In speaking of conditions in the west Mr. Stevens said that during the last year Spokane, Seattle and other prominent cities in that country have been exceptionally quiet. Work has been scarce and men plentiful and trade in nearly all lines has been light. Mr. Stevens declared that Spokane has been at a stand still for many months past and the prospects there for the new year are not bright.

From the general run of Mr. Stevens' conversation one would infer that the west is so place for the man of limited means at the present time. In this one finds another opportunity to proclaim the advantages of northern Wisconsin. Here there is sufficient employment, wages are good, business is brisk and on all sides the signs of prosperity are evident. In every respect it is the best country in which to live and enjoy peace, happiness and plenty.

AT THE MAJESTIC

Good vaudeville acts and motion pictures of the highest class continue on the programs at the Majestic theater. Mr. Zander is giving to his patrons one of the best shows for 5 and 10 cents to be seen anywhere in the state. The vaudeville bill for tonight and Friday is Morgan and West, Dutch comedians. This act is a scream from start to finish.

BARBERS WIN TWO GAMES

This week at the Lawrence bowling alleys the Barbers won two games from the city team. In the 135 pins in the lead and in the second fray they were 140 pins to the first contest the quill hunkers were good.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Wettingel of Appleton were in the city Tuesday in the track this morning, blocking traffic on that branch. Twenty passengers were on the train at the time. Mrs. Paul Browne.

HOLIDAYS ON FRIDAY

Five Feast Days in the New Year Occur on Hoodoo Day

Friday will come in for its own in 1913. Lucky, or unlucky more feast days and holidays will take place on a day than on any other day in the week. Five out of the ordinary events come on Friday.

Wednesday is second in the list with three feast days. The first holiday of the year, New Year's day, came on Wednesday. Counting days of small and big interest, religious feast days and national holidays, the distribution between the days of the week will be: Sunday, two; Monday, two; Tuesday, two; Wednesday, three; Thursday, two; Friday, six; Saturday, one.

Easter, March 23rd, and Discovery day, October 12th, fall on Sunday. St. Patrick's day, and Labor day, September 1st, come on Monday. Inauguration day, March 4th, and April Fool's day, New Year's day, Ash Wednesday, February 27th, and Lincoln's birthday, February 12th, complete the Wednesday list. St. Valentine's day, February 14th, July 4th, Halloween, October 30th, Memorial day, May 30th, and Good Friday are all on Friday. Saturday will be saved from absence of celebration by Washington's birthday, February 22.

There will be three eclipses of the sun during the year, all invisible in North America, however. But two there will be three eclipses of the moon in North America. The first one may be seen at 5 o'clock in the morning on March 22nd, and the second eclipse of the moon will be visible at 2:20 o'clock on the morning of September 15th.

FALLS INTO VAT AND IS SCALDED

Carl Fenska Meets With Serious Accident At The Venzer Plant

Carl Fenska, employed at the plant of the Wisconsin Venzer company in this city, was badly scalded Monday morning when he fell headlong into one of the large hot water vats in which logs are steamed preparatory to removing the bark. The exact manner in which the accident occurred is not known, but it is presumed that he slipped into the vat. It all happened suddenly and without warning. The vat is only a few feet deep and Mr. Fenska succeeded in getting out unaided but not before he had sustained severe scalds. Fortunately the accident happened on Monday morning when the water in the vat is not as hot as later in the day. Had the water been at its usual temperature Mr. Fenska might have been fatally scalded.

At St. Mary's hospital where Mr. Fenska is a patient he is reported to be recovering although it is feared that the sight of one eye may become impaired. He is an old and well known resident of this city.

GRIFFITH IS COMING

State Forester Here For Lecture On January 28

State Forester E. M. Griffith has been invited to Rhinelander for the purpose of making an address in the City Hall on the evening of Jan. 23. He has accepted the invitation and will come and explain the work of the forestry department, especially in its relation to Oneida and adjoining counties. Just at this time when the people of northern Wisconsin are up in arms against the reforestation system, Mr. Griffith's lecture is sure to attract great attention.

TRAIN LEAVES TRACK

Five cars of a Northwestern train on the Pelican-Crandon branch left the track this morning, blocking traffic on that branch. Twenty passengers were on the train at the time. No one was injured.

PRETTY WEDDING TUESDAY EVENING

St. Augustine's Church Scene Of The Joslin-Waldo Ceremony

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Augustine's church at eight o'clock Tuesday evening when Miss Winifred Joslin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Joslin of this city, became the wife of Mr. Guy Waldo of Park Falls, Wis. Father J. M. Johnson, vicar of St. Augustine's, performed the ceremony in the presence of over one hundred guests. The bride was given away by her father, Miss Fern Nelson of Oconomowoc, was maid of honor and Mr. C. E. Lovett, of Park Falls, was best man. Little Webb Ashton acted as book boy. Ushers were Thomas C. Wood, Charles F. Smith and Paul Joslin. During the entire service Mrs. F. C. Sawtell sang the wedding march, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Jessie Hampton.

The bride was attired in white crepe meteor and carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley. Miss Nelson wore peach colored crepe de Chine and carried a bouquet of red roses. For the occasion the church was artistically decorated with evergreens, carnations and Japanese cherry blossoms. The scene was altogether one of beauty.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Joslin residence, 140 S. Oneida Avenue. Sixty guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Waldo departed on the Northwestern limited that night for Chicago and the east where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside in Park Falls where a home, all furnished, awaits them. A large number of elaborate and costly gifts were presented to the young couple by friends in this city and elsewhere. Guests from away in attendance at the wedding were Mrs. Luella Waldo, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Marks and Miss Thompson, Park Falls; Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wettingel, Appleton.

The bride has spent practically all her life in Rhinelander. She attended high school here and later engaged in the profession of teaching, occupying positions in the schools of Park Falls and this city. She is an accomplished young lady, of pleasing personality and is a favorite among her many friends. In church and social circles she has always been active.

Mr. Waldo is a young man of keen business ability and highly regarded in Park Falls where he is manager of the Flambeau Paper company's extensive interests. He is by no means a stranger in Rhinelander, having frequently attended social functions and visited in this city on other occasions. He has made a very favorable impression here.

HERO OF NEWHALL FIRE

The thirtieth anniversary of the Newhall fire brings again before the public the name of George Wells who proved himself one of the heroes of that dreadful conflagration by saving the lives of fourteen girls.

Mr. Wells visits Rhinelander frequently as the traveling representative through this territory of the Goodyear Rubber company. For his display of bravery at that horrible fire he carries with him a solid gold watch which was presented him by the citizens of Milwaukee.

During the fire a ladder was placed across an alley between the burning structure and an adjoining building and on this treacherous bridge far above the ground Mr. Wells assisted in successfully moving fourteen unconscious girls to a place of safety.

Elmer Schellenger has accepted position as rate clerk in the office of the Pere Marquette railway, 52 Mitchell Building, Milwaukee. He was until recently employed as bill clerk by the Soo railway company in this city.

CROSS STATE ROAD AN URGENT NEED

Oneida Motor Club Acts Toward Securing Same At Meeting Last Night

Directors of the Oneida Motor Club elected at a meeting of the club at the Elk's club rooms last night are: A. S. Pierce, T. B. McIndoe, F. E. Parker, C. P. Crosby, W. E. Brown, C. A. Conro and D. F. Recker. At the directors' meeting officers were chosen as follows:

W. E. Brown, President.
C. P. Crosby, Vice President.
C. A. Conro, Secretary and Treasurer.

At the meeting further energetic steps were taken toward securing the state cross road. Committees were appointed for the purpose of interviewing people who would be directly interested in either of the proposed routes via Morico or the west side of Pelican Lake. The meeting was a most enthusiastic one and great interest was shown by the members in the proposition at hand. C. W. Fish of Elcho and E. W. Knapp of Sugar Camp were the outsiders present.

The need of a road such as the Oneida Motor Club is endeavoring to secure is imperative and toward accomplishing its realization the club should have the fullest cooperation of all citizens.

A CLOSE INSPECTION OF OUR STOCK

Will reveal its superior quality and convince you of the wide difference that really exists in lumber. You may imagine that lumber is all the same, but you were never more mistaken in your life, if you imagine that. There's as much difference between two boards that pass for the same grade as there is between a plug and a thoroughbred.

We invite a critical examination of our stock, simply because we know it to be much better than the average. QUALITY: That's our hobby. When we sell you a bill of lumber we want to know positively that you will be satisfied that you've got the best your money will buy, and will come to us when you want something else in building material.

USE PETROLEUM CARBON

THE IDEAL FUEL

Petroleum Carbon is not a product made from coal, as is the case with all other cokes. Neither is it a by-product from the Gas House known as gas house coke.

Petroleum Carbon is a by-product obtained from the refining of crude oil and is therefore made from oil.

There is not another fuel of any description that contains as many heat units as Petroleum Carbon contains.

There is not another fuel of any description that does not contain from ten to thirteen percent of ash.

Petroleum Carbon contains no ash. It all consumes.

It can be used in any furnace an entire season without removing a pound of ashes or shaking the grates and gives more heat than any other fuel.

For furnace, heater, range or grate use Petroleum Carbon, your imagination can not conceive of a more ideal fuel.

If you wish to know what the officials of the city of Rhinelander are doing, you must take the New North. It is the official city paper. It is also the only official county paper for Oneida county. Know what is going on in your city and county.

The Rhinelander New North issued a very attractive "Agricultural" edition this week containing 24 pages. It was well filled with illustrations and will be a good advertisement for Oneida county. Since that agricultural expert has been working in Oneida county, the progress made has been surprising. He is really stirring up the farmers there to a realization of their possibilities. — Antigo Journal.

President elect Woodrow Wilson does not show fear of the big trusts. He looks the builders of these great industries right in the face and tells them what they may expect if they continue to violate the law to fill their pockets at the expense of the people. He also insists that these men shall receive prison sentences for such violation. It is the kind of talk we need from the head of the government.

The developments of the McGovern Ekern feud had a sensational turn Tuesday. William Essman, superintendent of public property, in company with L. H. Anderson, whom the governor has appointed to fill Mr. Ekern's place together with four burly policemen tried to get possession of the office but the court stopped this; a hearing will take place before the court Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Mr. Ekern accuses the governor of attempting to displace the republican office holders with bull moosers.

Senator Isaac Stephenson will not be candidate for re-election. Among the Wisconsin Republicans it is believed the fight for the senate will be between Gov. McGovern, who is generally conceded to be a candidate, and the man whom Senator La Follette may favor. Representative Cooper is senatorial timber of a high quality, and was a pioneer in the Progressive movement. If Lenroot should not be a candidate it is thought likely that La Follette might turn to Cooper. Lieutenant Governor Morris also is mentioned. — Milwaukee Journal.

MUST OUST CARY
C. P. Cary, the present state superintendent of schools, goes before the people for re-election, not upon the good work he has done for the rural and graded schools but because he has neglected them to attack the state university. Experts sent out by the State Industrial Commission report that the rural schools are in a bad way because of neglect on the part of the State Superintendent to build up the elementary school system and has failed; now lets give him time to study up the faults of the university and elect a man state superintendent to build up the state school system.

REASSESSMENT NEEDED HERE
Tax Commissioner Lyons of Madison was at Berlin last week and opened a hearing on the complaint of Charles H. Wright against the city of Berlin for not taxing the property of the city on a uniform basis according to law.

The Berlin Courier of that city says: "Mr. Lyons did not render any decision, that is for the entire commission to do. From what he said it was easy to conclude that he was not impressed with the fairness of our assessment, and if we may be permitted to prophesy making as our basis the statements of the commissioner we will say that the commission will order a reassessment."

We are fully of the opinion now that we are to have an investigation of the county, we better have the city reassessed from a city standpoint. We are satisfied that property here runs from 25 percent to more than full value. The tax commission does not favor various concerns but insists that all shall be assessed on the same basis.

PARCEL POST HAS FAULTS
Although the new parcels post law which went into effect on Jan. 1st, has received many columns of favorable comment from the press all over the country, yet like all other new ideas it has its faults which the public are rapidly discovering.

In the first place you must be very careful that your package contains nothing but fourth class mail matter, as anything of the first, second or third class, including letters or parcels containing writing, newspapers or printed matter of any kind cannot be sent by parcels post and if it is, will be held at the office where it was mailed until the sender has been notified and the proper amount in regular postage stamps affixed.

Secondly, articles of the second class must be sent by parcels post even though the regular postage rates are lower. The Herald received an illustration of this last week. For several months past we have been shipping an electro type by mail to Duluth every week and paying from 4 to 6 cents by regular postage but now they must be sent by parcel post, costing from 5 to 8 cents.

All packages must be wrapped so as to admit of their being readily examined and must not be sealed. Where formerly many of the business men were in the habit of weighing up their parcels and mailing them on the train, it is now necessary that they be taken to the post office before they can be sent out as was shown by the experience of one of our business men one night last week. He had an important package which he wished to send out on the night train and as the post office was closed he weighed it, affixed the proper amount in parcel post stamps and took it to the train to mail, but the mail clerk refused to accept it which necessitated holding it over until next morning, thus causing the sender considerable inconvenience.

Although we believe the parcel post law will eventually prove a success yet there are a number of points on which it will have to be amended before it will be entirely satisfactory. — Park Falls Herald.

LA FOLLETTE SCORES VICTORY
Senator La Follette roused the senate Monday by a stirring speech in opposition to the conference report on the immigration bill. Senator La Follette's protest was directed against the clause requiring immigrants coming into the United States from countries that prescribe penal certificates to present one.

A notable victory was won by the Wisconsin senator. Following his argument, the senate ordered the bill returned to conference with instructions that the certificate of character clause be stricken out.

Senator Lodge, head of the senate conference, declared there were only two countries to which the new law would apply, Italy and Turkey in Asia.

Senator La Follette insisted that it would practically bar Russian Jews. The senate was stirred to opposition to the bill in the form reported, by telegrams showed upon it from Louis Marshall, New York, representing the American Jewish Conference. Marshall declared the effect would be to exclude Russian Jews. Senator Stone made the point of order that the clause was new legislation on a conference report.

Senator La Follette denounced the bill as a "childish yielding" to foreign countries to allow them to "prescribe the conditions on which we will admit immigrants into our country." He charged it left the law in such shape that only persons convicted of political offenses can be admitted to this country.

"If this law had been in force," said the senator from Wisconsin, "Carl Schurz and his little band of liberty-loving Germans, who have helped to build in my state, Wisconsin, a commonwealth that has gone ahead of any other state in this nation in bringing government back to the people, would have been excluded from our shores." — Milwaukee Journal.

Mr. Meekton's Mean Idea.
"Why did you insist on having your wife join the Suffragette Club?" "Because," replied Mr. Meekton, grimly, "I want to see that Suffragette Club get all the trouble that's coming to it."

Plaint of Old Age.
Washington Irving didn't enjoy old age more than the other fellow. He sighed one day: "What a pity it is that when we have grown old we can't turn around and grow young again, and die of cutting our teeth!"

LENROOT FOR THE SENATE
The live question in the Wisconsin delegation at Washington, is whether Representative Irvine L. Lenroot, Superior, will be a candidate for senator two years hence. It is generally believed here that he will be. His friends insist he is assured of the support of Senator La Follette if he decides to become a candidate. Progressive Republicans in the house have in mind another honor for Lenroot. As a member of the house committee on rules, he has commended himself to them as excellent material for speaker. In the event that Progressive Republicans control in 1915, Undoubtedly he would prefer to be speaker.

ROBBING THE CHIPPEWAS?
Severe Charges Are Made Against Indian Office

A terrific arraignment of the conditions on the White Earth Indian Reservation in Minnesota and those who are alleged to be responsible, is embodied in a report filed with the house of representatives by the committee on expenditures of the interior department. The charge is made that the Chippewa Indians have been plundered of their holdings by lumbermen and others.

A suggestion is also made that unless the Indian office can be made a more efficient agency in the interest of the tribes, it might just as well be abolished. A charge is made by inference, that legislation has been initiated in Washington affecting the affairs of the Chippewa Indians that has accrued to the advantage of the commercial interests of the state.

Concrete an Old Story.
Rome was not built in a day, nor built as fast as Tammanytown, nor built in structural steel, but it turns out that most of Rome's mighty structures, temples, circuses, baths, aqueducts, were built in concrete, not reinforced with iron and steel, as we build now, but a good quality of sand, stone and cement nevertheless. On this powerful central core of cement was fitted an ornamental facing of finest marble.

EUROPEAN TRIP A RELIEF FROM CARE

For years the Browns had planned a European trip, but every year something happened to prevent their getting away. First the children were ill and then Mrs. Brown invited guests for a short time, who stayed several months, preventing the Browns, by the dwindling of the bank account, from going abroad that year. Thus things went on.

Finally Brown declared as an absolute certainty that Europe would see them the following year. All their friends were notified and everything was done to make it impossible for their trip to be prevented.

When all was ready, however, Brown was ordered by his firm to secure a particularly desirable contract at any cost. It meant a lot to the firm and to Brown, but it also meant months of untiring effort—effort that could not be put forth in Europe.

Brown, however, had made his vow and he refused to let his business interfere with his family's plans. The family could go to Europe even if he couldn't. They had relatives abroad, and, besides, he could send them with a party. So he packed them on the train and looked as cheerful as possible when it pulled out.

When he returned home, however, he began to realize how lonesome it was there. It got on his nerves finally and he resolved to board during his bachelorhood. So he moved to a hotel.

Then the thought came to him to rent his house for the months that it would be vacant unless he rented it. There was no earthly use in letting it stand and gather dust, which was the same as throwing away a goodly sum of money each month. Some one would be only too glad of the opportunity to live in a well furnished house in a fashionable suburb, with all the benefits of the Browns' home comforts. Some one, no doubt, was searching eagerly for such an opportunity. So Brown hastened to advertise the treat in store for some one.

The number of replies he received was highly gratifying to him. After picking out the letter written on the best appearing stationery he clinched the bargain over the telephone. Of course, the tenants refused to pay nearly what he thought his house was worth, but on reflection he concluded that they were really carstakers for him who would look after his property generally. He even began to feel under obligations to them for their willingness to take his house and he agreed, to make themselves perfectly at home, assuring them that everything in the house was theirs to use as they desired.

When he hung up the receiver he heaved a sigh of relief and content. He needn't even think of the house again until his family were about to return. It was really a great idea of his to have some one take care of the property for him; now he could devote his entire time to the task of getting that important contract.

It was about a week later that over the telephone he listened to a very indignant feminine voice commanding his immediate presence at his home. Fearing no less calamity than a fire, Brown hastened to catch the first train to the familiar suburb.

"What's the matter?" he asked of the woman who opened the door after he had established his identity.

"Why," she replied, without inviting him in, "I wanted to ask you where I can find the potato knife and the carving set. And when you rented us this place you gave us to understand that it was completely furnished! Well, ever since we moved in we've been unable to find things we ought to have! There are no oyster forks nor individual butter knives! And the table linen is a disgrace—we could never invite guests to dine with us with such linen!"

"And the water froze the first night we were here, so we had to have a plumber, and that was $7. He says your drains are in a terribly insanitary condition, and if we get typhoid we shall certainly charge our doctor bills to you! You're no business advertising a perfect home—it's getting money under false pretenses!"

"We've had to buy lots of little things. Your brooms are dreadful, and some of your kitchen utensils were absolutely worn out. We'll just take the cost out of the rent—for, of course, the things will belong to the house."

Brown had ceased to listen. He was contemplating the gown worn by his tenant—a dainty house dress of Mrs. Brown's. His wife had left much of her wardrobe at home, he knew, in the doorway, to receive the first footprints of the newcomers, was the Browns' most valuable rug, treasured as very gold! He wondered what might lie beyond his vision!

He stuttered helplessly, trying to express his dissatisfaction, but the glare of righteous indignation in his tenant's eyes rendered him inarticulate.

"All the rent for the first month is already paid out," said the woman. "When the plumber's bill comes in shall we send it to you, or shall we pay it out of next month's rent?"

Happiest Home.
But the happiest home is built when the twin together meet, the trials and catastrophes that come from the outside world with the good health, the common sense, the humor, the patience and courage that will rout them. It should not be necessary for these qualities to be used by the one to combat the faults of the other. — Barbara Boyd.

Indexing Extraordinary.
Indexers have been responsible for many errors, but possibly the strangest example of curious indexing occurs in a law book. Turning over its index, a correspondent of the London Chronicle noted the entry: "Best, Mr. Justice, His Great Mind," and reference to the page brought this: "Mr. Justice Best said he had a great mind to commit the witness for contempt of court."

Fish's Strange Method.

Hadn't Done So Badly.
"I might have married a millionaire," declared Everywoman. "One of my old schoolmates is now one." "And several of your schoolmates are working right in this town for $10 a week," retorted Everyman, "while one of them is in jail. I guess in marrying a chap getting $1,500 a year your average is fairly good." And then Everybody set up a howl and they had to stop quarreling to attend to him. — Pittsburgh Post.

Lemon Hint.
Instead of throwing away hard, dry lemons, put them in a pan of hot water and set it where it will maintain about the same degree of heat without boiling for two hours. When taken out and dried the lemons will be as soft and juicy and rich in flavor as though they had never grown hard. — McCall's Magazine.

Prolific Penguins.
A penguin oil industry is to be established at Macquarie Island, about half way between Tasmania and the Antarctic continent. This island, 36 miles long and five wide, is estimated to contain probably 80,000,000 penguins, so that the stock seems almost limitless.

House Built of Porcelain.
An English inventor is building a house of sheets of porcelain, paneled and welded on a steel framework. The walls, being non-porous, would not retain dirt or disease germs. No matter how careless or dirty the previous tenant had been, a bucketful of water and some soap would make it as sweet and clean as a polished dinner plate.

One of His Worst.
The Doctor—Did you hear about that Methodist preacher's daughter down south who turned sleuth, hunted up the pickpocket who had robbed her of her purse, and finally landed him in the penitentiary? The Professor—Good for her! She was an M. H. sis, with a vengeance. — Chicago Tribune.

Common Sense

When you have a contract to be drawn, involving hundreds of dollars, where do you go? To the best lawyer available, of course.

When you are sick, whom do you call in? A physician of experience in his business—not one who will "practice" on you.

Why not follow the same course in buying insurance? It's simply "common sense" to do so. A strong company isn't enough, although it is important. The CONTRACT itself must be properly drawn.

MEANS SPECIAL ELECTION

The death of A. E. Schwittay as assemblyman representing Marinette county creates a vacancy in that office. Under the constitution the governor is commanded to issue a writ of election to fill the vacancy. The special election is ordered by the Governor, who specifies in the order the office to be filled, how the vacancy occurred, the name of the officer in whose office it occurred, the time when the term expires and in the district for which the office is to be filled.

PLAN NOW FOR SPRING PLANTING

Farmers Who Look Ahead Are Always The Most Successful Ones

Men who are successful in the busy world plan their work away ahead. They do not start up their mills and then look around to see where the logs are to come from to cut into lumber. Long before the mill is put up they have the log supply provided. Then they look ahead to see what kind of mill stuff will be wanted by buyers.

If you will notice it, you will find that the best farmers do the same thing. We have farmers in Oneida county who look ahead. They are the most successful farmers in the county. They have their farms so planned that they know where they are going to sow crops for the next two or three years. There is no hit-and-miss about it. The practices of these best farmers if followed by all farmers, will tend to success. Watch these successful farmers.

Most successful farmers either have their seed already on hand or are right now getting it. Those who get seed early do not have to take cull stuff. But those who put off getting seed until the day of sowing have to take what is left. Last spring as late as June first, right in the midst of potato planting time some men were looking for seed potatoes. They had to take cull stuff. That this may not happen again let us in Oneida county get our seed early. Last year quite a number of farmers wanted corn to plant but little or no move was made to get it until near planting time. Consequently corn that was poor had to be taken and lots of it did not grow. Get the seed corn early.

If the seed is secured pretty soon time will be allowed to test it out both for purity and germination before planting time. Every farmer ought to see that his seed is pure and then that it will germinate. There is no use in sowing seed that is full of weed seeds and certainly no reason for sowing seed that will not grow.

If farmers do not know how to test their seeds for purity and germination, the Agricultural Representative will tell them how. If they do not have time to test their seeds, he will test samples for them. But the seeds should be tested any way.

So now is the time to get the alfalfa, clover and corn for the spring sowing and planting. Don't put it off. If you are going to get it of a local dealer, tell him early and tell him that you want it pretty soon. Then you will get in on good seed and the late fellow will have to take the cull stuff. If you are buying the seed corn, ask your dealer to get it for you on the cob. Then you can see what sort of ears your seed comes from, whether nubbins or not, and you can test it and reject the ears that do not grow. It is hard to test out shelled corn. This coming season plan to get pure seed potatoes. It is a great mistake to plant mixed varieties. When you are doing that you better get into mind that you are planting something that will have to be sold at a low figure. If you sow any grains, buy Wisconsin pedigree seed. This is the best in the world.

Time is something that is needed by every one who sows alfalfa. Now we ought to sow a lot of alfalfa this coming spring and summer. We believe also that every farmer in Oneida county will find that time is a good thing to put out land where he is going to sow clover. So if you want time, you ought to tell the Agricultural Representative soon so that a big car can be secured and you will save a lot in that way.

You have probably read in the papers of recent date how well some men are doing in the dairy business this winter. These same men are planning on improving their herds by using pure bred sires. Every community in Oneida county is losing money right along by not having pure bred sires and using them. Some enterprising farmer in each community should get his neighbors to help to get a good pure bred sire for that community. The Agricultural Representative is in touch with several men who can furnish pure bred Guernsey sires. Now is the time to breed cows so that they will come in milk in September or October. In the stock raising business farmer must look ahead. If cows are bred now to scrub sires it will mean putting off the day of better dairying one more year. It is a great mistake to try to win out with scrub stock. Successful farmers look a head in the dairy business.

Mrs. P. E. Kabel has had a bad cold and slight attack of Lagrippe.

Dr. Ward is affected with a slight case of lung trouble and a cold.

Miss Hazel Farley, after being sick for two weeks, is again up and around.

Mrs. W. Hughes is visiting at the home of her parents for a few days.

Fred Minor was the guest of Miss Agnes Wesolowski on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Ward returned from a trip to her home at North Crandon, where she spent the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson spent Saturday and Sunday at Monico. It is so pleasant to be home occasionally.

J. Taylor received injuries while loading logs. At first it was thought quite serious, but he seems to be getting on fairly well.

Miss A. Rice went to Antigo on Monday to consult a physician about her health. She reports that her present occupation does not afford her enough fresh air and exercise.

The dance held at Wesolowski's hall last Saturday evening proved a great success. There was a large attendance and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves. Glen Small, as a tramp, received the men's prize. Mrs. Alec Stark, as a Dutch woman, received the women's prize.

The Y. M. C. A. is about to reorganize. Preparations for the general recreative games and calisthenic exercises are being made. The boys are looking forward to organizing a basketball team soon. The girls under the guidance of the women teachers, are going to organize a Y. W. C. A.

The members of the Debating Club have scheduled a debate to be held Feb. 7. Resolved: "That the Women of the U. S. be granted equal suffrage with men." The girls and boys have been discussing this question since the last election and are now ready to have judges render a formal decision.

For the past week the girls of the upper department of the school have been wearing little banners bearing the letters, M. G. C. These were lately changed to U. P. G. C. It has caused great consternation among the boys, and although every conceivable name has been suggested, no one outside of the secret club can as yet say what the letters signify.

NEW INDUSTRY IN PHEASANTS

Interest Becoming Widespread and Thousands of Birds Now Scattered Throughout Country.

(By W. L. MATEE)
Conservation of the fauna including the game birds of the United States requires the strict enforcement of laws intended to control the shooting and marketing of wild birds, and necessarily limits both the period during which they may be hunted and the number available to supply the increasing demands of those who desire those table luxuries.

This lack may be remedied by the product of avian, preserves, and private parks, devoted to rearing of domesticated game, the marketing of which under suitable safeguards is already permitted in several of the states, indicating that American markets will open more and more to these domesticated substitutes to the fast disappearing wild game.

At present there is no lack of demand for pheasants for various purposes. Owners of private preserves, and state game officials, pay profitable prices for certain species for stocking their covers, zoological and city parks and owners of private aviaries are ready purchasers of the rarer and more beautiful species, and large numbers of dead pheasants are annually imported from Europe to be sold for several times the price they bring in European countries. The demand for pheasants is increasing.

Ringneck pheasants have long been established in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, and are less common in the wild state in Massachusetts, New York, Indiana and Kansas. Efforts to acclimatize pheasants in the United States are of comparatively recent origin, though earlier than is popularly supposed.

The few pheasant stomachs examined indicate that these birds are very fond of grain. Oats and wheat composed about 34 percent of the food of 12 ringneck pheasants collected in Oregon and Washington and 82.5 percent of the stomach contents of two English pheasants from British Columbia. But all of these birds were taken in September, October and December; hence it is probable that all of this grain was waste. The next largest item of food in these stomachs was insects, consisting entirely of larvae of March flies. One stomach contained no fewer than 200 of these larvae and another 422. The remainder of the food included acorns, pine seeds, browse, peas, rose hips, lupine, burdock, black mustard and chickweed.

From 200 to 500 kernels of wheat and oats were taken by various birds; about 200 peas were found in one stomach, but it was evident that these were the old and partly decomposed refuse of the harvest. Twenty-three acorns and 200 pine seeds were taken by the birds which ate the largest amount of mast, and about 800 capsules of chickweed, containing more than 8,000 seeds, were in the stomach of the best weed seed eater.

What is most evident is that pheasants are gross feeders; their capabilities for good or harm are great. If a number of them attack a crop they are likely to make short work of it, or if they devote themselves to weed seeds or insect pests they do a great deal of good. It seems therefore that the question of the economic value of pheasants is peculiarly a local one. Much depends on the proportion of land under cultivation, the kind of crops raised, and the quantity of wild food available. Apparently the chances are about even that imported pheasants will or will not become useful economic factors.

Clover for Fowls.
Clover is better than any other hay for fowls for the reason that it possesses egg making nutriment, as well as fiber to separate the particles of grain. It is not bulk (more quantity) that is needed, but coarse fiber to separate the concentrated feed in the stomach, thus the grain passes on directly into the intestines.

PARCEL POST AND EXPRESS SERVICE

American Express Company Urges Agents Not To Oppose New System

For the information and guidance of the company's employees, we print herewith the substance of an article which will appear in the January President's Office Circular:

Through the fuller installation of the Government Parcel Post on January 1, 1913, a new system for which there seems to be a demand, has entered the transportation field, affording the public an additional service on shipments of 11 lbs. and less which at no time in the past has this company opposed nor will it in the future. This policy must be strictly maintained by our officials and employees by refraining from any attitude unfriendly to or of criticism of the Parcel Post; devoting their time and attention towards the continued development of the efficiency of the company's service to the public.

With its enormous resources and vast commercial interests, this country is large enough for both Express Companies and the Parcel Post. Each will serve the public in its respective capacity, and the conclusion can safely be drawn that the shipping community will carefully consider the benefits to be derived from the service rendered by both systems, utilizing that which best meets their requirements.

From a very small beginning in the year 1811, the business of the American Express Company has grown and developed until today it is an important factor to the commercial interests of the country in respect of its forwarding facilities and in a multitude of other and different directions, which virtually embrace the execution of all legitimate commercial and financial transactions requiring personal representation on behalf of our patrons.

The Company will continue to give its patrons a service that will meet their needs—simple, efficient and complete in all details, with the assurance of increased facilities as fast as the growth of traffic and business interests require it and we hope that our efforts will meet with the co-operation of our many customers.

JAS. C. FARGO, President.

EXPENSE OF PRODUCING MILK

Interesting Investigation Made by Dairy Department of Ohio College of Agriculture.

The people of cities who complain about the high price of milk may be interested in knowing what it costs to produce and distribute good marketable milk. An investigation made last year by the dairy department of the college of agriculture, Ohio State university, shows that the average cost of producing a gallon of milk in Ohio is about 25 cents, or 6.25 cents per quart, allowing 3,200 pounds per cow per year as the average milk production.

This takes into consideration the cost of feeds, labor, interest on investment, maintenance, insurance, taxes, etc. When the average milk production per cow is increased the cost of milk is decreased. The average cost of distribution is 3 1/2 cents per quart, making a total of 9.75 cents per quart as the cost of producing milk and delivering it to the consumer. This means that when the milk retails at ten cents a quart, the average producer and distributor is making little or no profit in the transaction.

Where the high-producing cows are kept, and economic methods of handling and distributing on a large scale are employed, the above figures are greatly reduced, and there is a fair profit in the dairy business. However, it is the average producer, who keeps average cows, the increasing cost of feeds and labor, and the greater demand for sanitary conditions that are contributing to the high price of milk.

NEED FOR GOOD VENTILATION

Dairy Cow Is Often Required to Work Under Unfavorable Influences—Make Plans Now.

Farmers who are going to build barns next summer should make arrangements now to put in the King system of ventilation in their stables. It is not expensive if you make calculations in time.

The Washington Agricultural college has the following to say on the necessity of ventilation:

"Dairy barns are very frequently poorly ventilated. The dairy cow is then not only required to live, but to work under unfavorable influences, and she often falls a victim to such diseases as tuberculosis, pneumonia, bronchitis and colds. Foul air is one of the prime factors in the production of such diseases. Since the advent of sanitary science in connection with ventilation, the air space allowed for each animal has been increased, and a number of methods of ventilation have been devised. The exercise of a little care in such matters will protect the health of animals, prevent premature death and also make possible the highest working efficiency of the herd."

DAIRY RATION WITH SPELTZ

Experiments Show It to Be Worth About 13 Per Cent. Less Than Corn for Milking.

A ration consisting of 30 to 35 pounds of silage, 5 pounds of alfalfa hay, corn stover and libitum, and corn bran and speltz, will give very satisfactory results as a feed for dairy cattle.

We can say, however, that if the speltz is worth as much as corn we would not advise using it, says an exchange. Experiments indicate that speltz, more properly termed Emmer, is worth about 13 per cent. less than corn for milk-making purposes.

A mixture consisting of 400 pounds corn chop, 200 pounds bran, 400 pounds speltz, will supplement the roughage suggested very nicely. One pound for each 3 1/2 pounds of milk should give the cows ample nourishment for doing reasonably good work. If speltz is omitted from the mixture, a combination of 500 pounds of corn chop and 300 pounds bran will make a very good combination.

Harmful Milk Can.

A rusty milk can causes trouble any time of year. Bad germs will propagate in the crevices and the milk will lack of fresh, sweet flavor. Throw away your rusty can and get good one.

PERKINS WANTS RETURN MATCH

Rhineland Boxer Claims Press Reports On Worgin Bout Fakes

Arrangements are being made for a return bout between Billy Perkins of this city, and Al Worgin, of Milwaukee, in Rhineland Friday, January 31.

Billy Perkins returned Friday from Milwaukee where he met Al Worgin one of the classiest men in the middleweight division of the beer city. In explanation of the newspaper reports of the battle, which stated that Worgin outpointed the local boy Perkins declares positively that the stories were without truth. He says that twice he knocked Worgin through the ropes and gave him plenty of punishment. As Worgin is a Milwaukee "pug" it is natural that the sporting writers there would favor him. Perkins came out of the encounter without a mark.

To the New North Perkins states that he is anxious to again meet Worgin and will arrange to have the match in this city in order to show the Rhineland fans, who took stock in the Milwaukee newspaper stories, that he can handle Worgin with ease. This bout should prove a strong drawing card.

New Ideas for Handy Boys

By A. NEELY HALL

Author of "Handicraft for Handy Boys," "The Boy Craftsman," etc.

A NEW WHIP BOW AND A NEW CROSS-BOW.

Homemade fireless firearms can be productive of much fun in the back yard or vacant lot, and with homemade targets to shoot at a boy needs but practice to attain an accuracy of aim that will make him expert in the handling of them.

The whip bow and the cross bow are two harmless weapons that are popular among boys, and in the illustrations you will find a new form of each which I have devised for you.

The whip bow which the boy is shown using in Fig. 1 differs from the ordinary kind in the whiplash. This is made elastic by inserting several rubber bands as shown in Fig. 2, which makes it possible to sling the arrow at a greater distance than can be done with the cord lash, as it gives to it the qualities of an elastic "sling shot."

For the whip handle take any springy stick about 3 feet long—a small tree branch will do, and notch it near one end as shown in Fig. 2 to receive the whip lash. Any stout cord will do for the lash. Fasten two or three rubber bands together by looping them end to end, and tie about two-thirds of the length of the cord to one end and the other third to the other end. After tying the cord to the whip handle tie a hard knot at the free end.

Arrows can be cut of any straight-grained wood. Fig. 3 shows a good should be cut to the same thickness as end B, to fit between the opposite ends of stripe D. Cut strips D 20 inches long.

Block E should be fastened to the end of the barrel. The top should be grooved as shown. If you can find a tongue-and-grooved board, cut this block out of the grooved edge. The bow-string block F slides along the top of the barrel with the lower thin portion sticking down between pieces D. Drive a staple into the back of the block, drive a small nail into the two side faces, and bore a half-inch hole in the front face in a position that will correspond to that of the grooves in block E (Fig. 7).

The trigger (Fig. 6) is notched on top so the staple in block F will catch on it, and the lower end has a notch in one edge to receive rubber bands. Pivot the trigger between the barrel pieces D with a small nail or brad, adjusting the top end so the staple will catch lightly when the trigger is cocked, and slip off easily when the trigger is pulled. The rubber bands extending from the lower notch in the trigger to a small nail driven into the under side of the barrel, must be strong enough to hold the trigger against the pull of the bow string.

A barrel hoop forms the bow of the gun. Notch each end of the bow (Fig. 8), and nail it at its center to the end of the barrel. Tie the bow string to the nails in block F and the ends of the bow.

The arrows for this form of cross bow must be of the right length to extend from block F to a trifle beyond block E, for the forward end rests in the groove in E, and the rear end sticks into the hole in block F. The shaft of your arrows can be cut out of lath, and excellent arrowheads can be made out of thread spools by first sawing spools into halves and then tapering them to blunt points (Fig. 10). The ends of the shafts stick into the holes of the spools, as shown in Fig. 9.

Doctor's Yarn.

"An anodyne," said a well-known physician, explaining things to a lady patient, "is a cheater, in a way. I mean to say that a medicine that soothes pain has this drawback—it relieves the attack, but the next attack comes so much sooner."

"Understand what I mean? I'll cure your headache, but you're bound to have another headache in a day or two."

"I know just what you mean, doctor," interrupted the lady patient. "I've noticed it about my husband. A doctor prescribed whisky for a cough of his."

"My husband says it cured his cough quicker than anything else ever did, but I notice that he gets a new cough almost every week now!"

This same doctor tells us of a friend and professional brother.

As a Stranger Sees Us.

There aren't many places where the baggage transfer companies are quite so cursed as they are in Pittsburgh. Once in New York I gave a boy the job of "toting" my grip from the Pennsylvania station to Times square, about five minutes' walk—and we walked. He wanted $1.05—the five cents was to pay his cartage back. Next to that, the meanest thing ever happened to me was when a Pittsburgh transfer company took all night to carry my trunk from a railroad station to a hotel, charged me 40 cents for what is done in any other town for 25 cents and, after forcing me to go without pajamas, charged me storage for keeping care of my trunk all night. Pretty rough, I call it.

FLASHES FROM THE HEADLIGHT

Bits of News Pertaining To The Soo and Northwestern Railroads

The Stevens Point Journal states that about a year ago a large number of employees of the Soo line bought about 21,000 acres of land in North Dakota, intending to hold it as an investment. The venture was called the Fertile Valley Land Company, and by a deal just completed the property has been sold and the stockholders have realized a neat profit.

Patrick, lately over, was working in the yards of a railroad. One day he happened to be in the yard office when the force was out. The telephone rang vigorously several times and he at last decided it ought to be answered. He walked over to the instrument, took down the receiver and put his mouth to the transmitter, just as he had seen others do. "Hello!" he called. "Hello!" answered the voice at the other end of the line. "Is this eight-one-five-nine?" "Aw, gwan! Phwat d'ye tink of am? A box car?"

The Northwestern line is running its passenger trains on the Ashland division nearly on time this winter—a great improvement over the poor service of one year ago.

The telephone system for dispatching trains has been put into service on the Chicago division of the Soo line between Stevens Point and Minneapolis. Telephones for this purpose have been placed in thirty-one stations between the two above mentioned cities. The system is as near perfect as is possible to make it and the telephones will be used for dispatching only.

It is rumored that telephones may within a short time take the place of telegraph instruments for dispatching on this division of the Soo line, the Rhinelander station included.

After a trial lasting about two weeks, the jury in the case of Joseph LaVera against the Soo line brought in a verdict awarding the plaintiff $9,000 damages. La Vera sued for $75,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by his minor son, while at work with a section crew at Hoyt last summer. He alleges that the son was made insane by a fall from a moving hand car. The case was one that attracted much interest throughout the middle west and was stubbornly fought by both sides. Many expert witnesses were called. The Soo line through its attorney, W. A. Hayes of Milwaukee, will move to set aside the verdict rendered because of errors in the trial.

The Modern Woodmen Society now has among its more than 15,000 Camp clerks a "Four Hundred," consisting of the Camp clerks who had transferred all their members to the new rates before the issuance of Judge Shirley's injunction restraining the Society from putting these new rates into effect. These clerks will receive gold medals. Many others had transferred nearly all their members when the injunction was issued.

INDIGESTION FIVE YEARS

Relieved by Vinol.

Strength and even life itself depends upon the nourishment and proper assimilation of food, and unless digestion is good, the whole body suffers.

Mrs. L. D. Cook, Vineland, N. J., says: "I was sick five years with indigestion. My stomach seemed to have a heavy load in it, and at other times it seemed to be tied in knots. Nobody knows how I suffered."

"I tried a great many doctors and a great many kinds of medicine, but nothing did any good until I took Vinol. It has helped me wonderfully. I am improving fast, feel better and am getting my flesh back again. Vinol has done me a world of good."

SHOULD MILK A COW CLEAN

Operation Should Be Performed Twice Daily and Have Periods Divided Even as Possible.

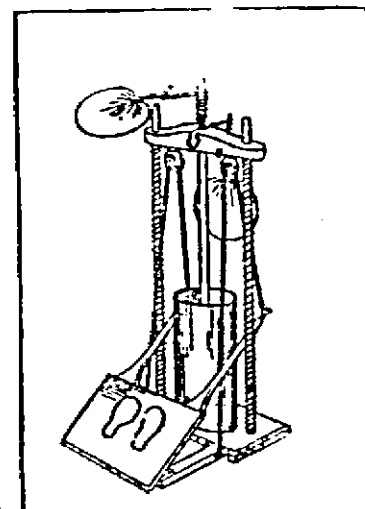

Probably no single cause tends more to check milk secretion than the failure to remove all the milk at the time of milking, says Hoard's Dairymen. The presence of even a little milk in the ducts may act as a powerful check on the secretion of fresh milk. Hence the extreme importance of clean milking; that is, milking the cow dry, which will be found one of the surest and best methods of prolonging the milk supply.

Generally twice a day is sufficient; and it is best to so arrange that the period mentioned is divided evenly into parts. There are certain animals which yield rather more by being milked oftener, such cases being indicated by an undue distention of the udder between milkings. The most important part to impress is the extreme necessity of regularity in the time of milking, for it has been ascertained by careful experiments that the difference of an hour may, and often does, make a difference of as much as nine per cent in the amount of milk yielded. Repeated irregularities of this kind soon tend to diminish the flow of milk permanently. Weighing the milk is the best means of registering the capabilities of a cow.

FOOTPOWER OPERATES CHURN

Movement Is Obtained That Is Partly Automatic and Keeps Dasher in Continuous Action.

A churn that is operated by footpower instead of by handpower has been patented by a Kentucky man. From a baseboard two upright poles rise and encircling these poles are coiled springs, rising almost to the tops. Resting on top of the springs is a crosspiece in which the dasher of the churn is fixed. Underneath the crossbar are pulleys, through which run ropes attached to the base and to the arms of the treadle. When the treadle is operated, the crosspiece is drawn down with the downward pressure of the foot and is forced upward

again by the spring. This results in a movement that is partly automatic and keeps the dasher in continuous action. Fans attached to the dasher also operate automatically to cool the contents of the churn. With this mechanism the person churning has his or her hands free for other work, such as peeling potatoes, etc.

DAIRY NOTES

Better have one good cow than two scrubs.

Turnips are a very good feed for dairy cows.

Hindus used butter for food 2,000 years before Christ.

A bit of old cream may spoil the whole batch of butter.

Silage will average about 40 pounds per cubic foot, in the silo.

Chips are cheaper than corn to warm the cow's drinking water.

The temperature at which milk separates best is about 90 degrees.

Life is a merry whirl for the "boarder" cow whose milk is tested.

Cream well cooled before shutting the cover down tight will keep better.

Clean hands, a clean cow, a clean barn, and a clean milk pail produces clean milk.

The Holstein breed was first heard of in the northern part of Holland 2,000 years ago.

The dairymen who put his corn stalks into a silo is not worrying about stalk disease.

In keeping cows remember that production will largely depend upon the comfort of the cow.

A good cow should never be put in the hands of a poor milker. It is sure to work disastrous results.

To keep the cream from splashing out of the dash churn try planning a folded newspaper around the top.

Put a little bran in the bottom of the pail when the calf has drunk his milk, and he will readily learn to eat it.

It is a bad practice to let cream freeze. Besides being hard to churn it gives the cream an unnatural flavor.

FINE GUERNSEY DISPLAY

At Live Stock Exposition Madison, Feb. 3 and 6

The display of Guernseys which will be shown at the Wisconsin Live Stock Exposition to be held in Madison from February 3-6, will include a world's record breaker and a purple ribbon show ring winner, Charles L. Hill, president of the American Guernsey Cattle Club, who is assembling the exhibit of this Channel Island breed, has secured the loan of Jerry, a Guernsey grade which holds the world's record for the production of butter fat. The official record credited to her is 15,741 pounds of milk and 729.57 pounds of butter fat in one year or five times more than the amount annually produced by the average cow. Although bred by a Wisconsin breeder, Jerry is now owned by the Knickerbocker Ice Company of Chicago, who purchased her soon after her tour of upper Wisconsin on the More and Better Live Stock Special upon which she was exhibited. Glenwood Combination 5th, a Waukesha county sire, which has been accorded the premier honors at several important middle western fairs and expositions, will also be shown as a representative of this great breed. By presenting a superior display of the breed at this important exposition, Guernsey admirers confidently expect to still further develop the popularity of their breed.

NEW INDUSTRY IN PHEASANTS

Interest Becoming Widespread and Thousands of Birds Now Scattered Throughout Country.

(By W. L. MATEE)

Conservation of the fauna including the game birds of the United States requires the strict enforcement of laws intended to control the shooting and marketing of wild birds, and necessarily limits both the period during which they may be hunted and the number available to supply the increasing demands of those who desire those table luxuries.

This lack may be remedied by the product of aviaries, preserves, and private parks, devoted to rearing of domesticated game, the marketing of which under suitable safeguards is already permitted in several of the states, indicating that American markets will open more and more to these domesticated substitutes to the fast disappearing wild game.

At present there is no lack of demand for pheasants for various purposes. Owners of private preserves, and state game officials, pay profitable prices for certain species for stocking their covers, zoological and city parks and owners of private aviaries are ready purchasers of the rarer and more beautiful species, and large numbers of dead pheasants are annually imported from Europe to be sold for several times the price they bring in European countries. The demand for pheasants is increasing.

Ringneck pheasants have long been established in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, and are less common in the wild state in Massachusetts, New York, Indiana and Kansas. Efforts to acclimatize pheasants in the United States are of comparatively recent origin, though earlier than is popularly supposed.

The few pheasant stomachs examined indicate that these birds are very fond of grain. Oats and wheat composed about 51 percent of the food of 12 ringneck pheasants collected in Oregon and Washington and 52.5 percent of the stomach contents of two English pheasants from British Columbia. But all of these birds were taken in September, October and December; hence it is probable that all of this grain was waste. The next largest item of food in these stomachs was insects, consisting entirely of larvae of March flies. One stomach contained no fewer than 200 of these larvae and another 422. The remainder of the food included acorns, pine seeds, browse, peas, rose hips, lupine, bur clover, black mustard and chickweed.

From 200 to 300 kernels of wheat and oats were taken by various birds; about 200 peas were found in one stomach, but it was evident that these were the old and partly decomposed refuse of the harvest. Twenty-three acorns and 200 pine seeds were taken by the birds which ate the largest amount of mast, and about 800 capsules of chickweed, containing more than 8,000 seeds, were in the stomach of the best weed seed eater.

What is most evident is that pheasants are gross feeders; their capabilities for good or harm are great. If a number of them attack a crop they are likely to make short work of it, or if they devote themselves to weed seeds or insect pests they do a great deal of good. It seems therefore that the question of the economic value of pheasants is peculiarly a local one. Much depends on the proportion of land under cultivation, the kind of crops raised, and the quantity of wild food available. Apparently the chances are about even that imported pheasants will or will not become useful economic factors.

Clover for Fowls.

Clover is better than any other hay for fowls for the reason that it possesses egg making nutriment, as well as fiber to separate the particles of grain. It is not bulk (mere quantity) that is needed, but coarse fiber to separate the concentrated feed in the stomach; that the particles may circulate through the system.

PARCEL POST AND EXPRESS SERVICE

American Express Company Urges Agents Not To Oppose New System

For the information and guidance of the company's employees, we print herewith the substance of an article which will appear in the January President's Office Circular:

Through the fuller installation of the Government Parcel Post on January 1, 1913, a new system for which there seems to be a demand, has entered the transportation field, affording the public an additional service on shipments of 11 lbs. and less which at no time in the past has this company opposed nor will it in the future. This policy must be strictly maintained by our officials and employees by refraining from any attitude unfriendly to or of criticism of the Parcel Post; devoting their time and attention towards the continued development of the efficiency of the company's service to the public.

With its enormous resources and vast commercial interests, this country is large enough for both Express Companies and the Parcel Post. Each will serve the public in its respective capacity, and the conclusion can safely be drawn that the shipping community will carefully consider the benefits to be derived from the service rendered by both systems, utilizing that which best meets their requirements.

From a very small beginning in the year 1841, the business of the American Express Company has grown and developed until today it is an important factor to the commercial interests of the country in respect of its forwarding facilities and in a multitude of other and different directions, which virtually embrace the execution of all legitimate commercial and financial transactions requiring personal representation on behalf of our patrons.

The Company will continue to give its patrons a service that will meet their needs—simple, efficient and complete in all details, with the assurance of increased facilities as fast as the growth of traffic and business interests require it and we hope that our efforts will meet with the co-operation of our many customers.

JAS. C. FARGO, President.

EXPENSE OF PRODUCING MILK

Interesting Investigation Made by Dairy Department of Ohio College of Agriculture.

The people of cities who complain about the high price of milk may be interested in knowing what it costs to produce and distribute good marketable milk. An investigation made last year by the dairy department of the college of agriculture, Ohio State university, shows that the average cost of producing a gallon of milk in Ohio is about 25 cents, or 6.25 cents per quart, allowing 3,200 pounds per cow per year as the average milk production.

This takes into consideration the cost of feeds, labor, interest on investment, maintenance, insurance, taxes, etc. When the average milk production per cow is increased the cost of milk is decreased. The average cost of distribution is 3 1/4 cents per quart, making a total of 9.75 cents per quart as the cost of producing milk and delivering it to the consumer. This means that when the milk retails at ten cents a quart, the average producer and distributor is making little or no profit in the transaction.

Where the high-producing cows are kept, and economic methods of handling and distributing on a large scale are employed, the above figures are greatly reduced, and there is a fair profit in the dairy business. However, it is the average producer, who keeps average cows, the increasing cost of feeds and labor, and the greater demand for sanitary conditions that are contributing to the high price of milk.

NEED FOR GOOD VENTILATION

Dairy Cows Often Required to Work Under Unfavorable Influences—Make Plans Now.

Farmers who are going to build barns next summer should make arrangements now to put in the King system of ventilation in their stables. It is not expensive if you make calculations in time.

The Washington Agricultural college has the following to say on the necessity of ventilation:

"Dairy barns are very frequently poorly ventilated. The dairy cow is then not only required to live, but to work under unfavorable influences, and she often falls a victim to such diseases as tuberculosis, pneumonia, bronchitis and colds. Foul air is one of the prime factors in the production of such diseases. Since the advent of sanitary science in connection with ventilation, the air space allowed for each animal has been increased, and a number of methods of ventilation have been devised. The exercise of a little care in such matters will protect the health of animals, prevent premature death and also make possible the highest working efficiency of the herd."

DAIRY RATION WITH SPELTZ

Experiments Show It to Be Worth About 13 Per Cent. Less Than Corn for Milking.

A ration consisting of 30 to 35 pounds of silage, 5 pounds of alfalfa hay, corn stover and libitum, and corn, bran and speltz, will give very satisfactory results as a feed for dairy cattle.

We can say, however, that if the speltz is worth as much as corn we would not advise using it, says an exchange. Experiments indicate that speltz, more properly termed Emmer, is worth about 13 per cent. less than corn for milk-making purposes.

A mixture consisting of 400 pounds corn chop, 200 pounds bran, 400 pounds speltz, will supplement the roughage suggested very nicely. One pound for each 3 1/4 pounds of milk should give the cows ample nourishment for doing reasonably good work. If speltz is omitted from the mixture, a combination of 500 pounds of corn chop and 200 pounds bran will make a very good combination.

Harmful Milk Can.

A rusty milk can causes trouble any time of year. Bad germs will propagate in the crevices and the milk will lack of fresh, sweet flavor. Throw away any rusty can and get good new one.

PERKINS WANTS RETURN MATCH

Rhineland Boxer Claims Press Reports On Worgin Bout Fakes

Arrangements are being made for a return bout between Billy Perkins of this city, and Al Worgin, of Milwaukee, in Rhineland Friday, January 31.

Billy Perkins returned Friday from Milwaukee where he met Al Worgin one of the classiest men in the middleweight division of the beer city.

In explanation of the newspaper reports of the battle, which stated that Worgin outpointed the local boy Perkins declares positively that the stories were without truth. He says that twice he knocked Worgin through the ropes and gave him plenty of punishment. As Worgin is a Milwaukee "pug" it is natural that the sporting writers there would favor him. Perkins came out of the encounter without a mark.

To the New North Perkins states that he is anxious to again meet Worgin and will arrange to have the match in this city in order to show the Rhinelanders fans, who took stock in the Milwaukee newspaper stories, that he can handle Worgin with ease. This bout should prove a strong drawing card.

New Ideas for Handy Boys

By A. NEELY HALL

Author of "Handicrafts for Handy Boys," "The Boy Craftsman," etc.

A NEW WHIP BOW AND A NEW CROSS-BOW.

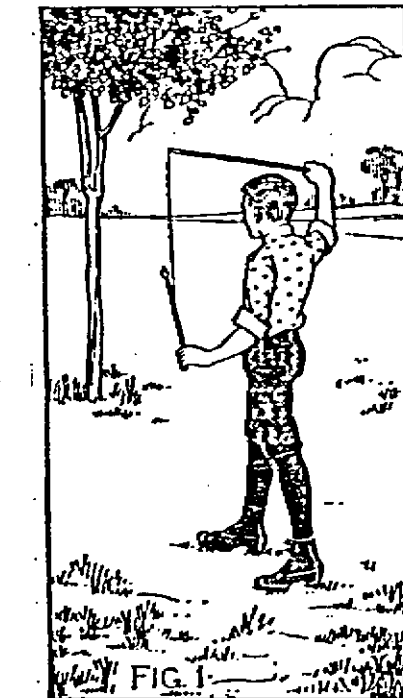

Home-made fireless firearms can be productive of much fun in the back yard or vacant lot, and with home-made targets to shoot at a boy needs but practice to attain an accuracy of aim that will make him expert in the handling of them.

The whip bow and the cross bow are two harmless weapons that are popular among boys, and in the illustrations you will find a new form of each which I have devised for you.

The whip bow which the boy is shown using in Fig. 1 differs from the ordinary kind in the whiplash. This is made elastic by inserting several rubber bands as shown in Fig. 2, which makes it possible to sling the arrow at a greater distance than can be done with the cord lash, as it gives to it the qualities of an elastic "sling shot."

For the whip handle take any springy stick about 3 feet long—a small tree branch will do, and notch it near one end as shown in Fig. 2 to receive the whip lash. Any stout cord will do for the lash. Fasten two or three rubber bands together by looping them end to end, and tie about two-thirds of the length of the cord to one end and the other third to the other end. After tying the cord to the whip handle tie a hard knot at the free end.

Arrows can be cut of any straight-grained wood. Fig. 3 shows a good form of arrow cut from a shingle. If you can find a shingle you can make several arrows out of the one piece. The head of the arrow is cut on the thick end of the shingle, and the tail on the thin end. The shaft of the arrow must be notched to receive the whiplash, and this must be at the "center of balance," which may be determined by holding the arrow across the edge of your knife blade and sliding it one way or the other until it balances. The notch should slant in the direction of the arrow-head.

To sling the arrow, slip the end of the whiplash into the notch and draw it through as far as the knot. Then holding the tail of the arrow in the left hand and the whip bow in the right hand, as shown in Fig. 1, sling out your right arm full length and at the same time release the hold on the arrow. The arrow can be shot high into the air, or straight at a target. The record throw with a whip bow is 372 feet. Probably you will not make a new record, but with practice you should be able to sling your arrows a considerable distance.

The new form of cross bow shown in Fig. 4 requires two pieces of lath for the barrel, a barrel hoop for the bow, a piece of a 1/2-inch board out of which to cut the stock, trigger, etc., and two heavy rubber bands. Cut the stock (A) about 3 inches long, and of the shape shown in Fig. 5, and remove a piece three-eighths inch in thickness from each side of the small end B, as shown, to receive the ends of the barrel pieces D. Block C should be cut to the same thickness as end B, to fit between the opposite ends of strips D. Cut strips D 2 1/2 inches long.

Block E should be fastened to the end of the barrel. The top should be grooved as shown. If you can find a tongue-and-grooved board, cut this block out of the grooved edge. The bow-string block F slides along the top of the barrel with the lower thin portion sticking down between pieces D. Drive a staple into the back of the block, drive a small nail into the two side faces, and bore a half-inch hole in the front face in a position that will correspond to that of the grooves in block E (Fig. 7).

The trigger (Fig. 6) is notched on top so the staple in block F will catch on it, and the lower end has a notch in one edge to receive rubber bands. Pivot the trigger between the barrel pieces D with a small nail or brad, adjusting the top end so the staple will catch lightly when the trigger is cocked, and slip off easily when the trigger is pulled. The rubber bands extending from the lower notch in the trigger to a small nail driven into the under side of the barrel, must be strong enough to hold the trigger against the pull of the bow string.

A barrel hoop forms the bow of the gun. Notch each end of the bow (Fig. 8), and nail it at its center to the end of the barrel. Tie the bow string to the nails in block F and the ends of the bow.

The arrows for this form of cross bow must be of the right length to extend from block F to a trifle beyond block E, for the forward end rests in the groove in E, and the rear end sticks into the hole in block F. The shaft of your arrows can be cut out of lath, and excellent arrowheads can be made out of thread spools by first sawing spools into halves and then tapering them to blunt points (Fig. 10). The ends of the shafts stick into the holes of the spools, as shown in Fig. 9.

Doctor's Yarns.

"An anodyne," said a well-known physician, explaining things to a lady patient, "is a cheater, in a way. I mean to say that a medicine that soothes pain has this drawback—it relieves the attack, but the next attack comes so much sooner."

"Understand what I mean? It'll cure your headache, but you're bound to have another headache in a day or two."

"I know just what you mean, doctor," interrupted the lady patient. "I've noticed it about my husband. A doctor prescribed whisky for a cough of his."

"My husband says it cured his cough quicker than anything else ever did, but I notice that he gets a new cough almost every week now!"

This same doctor tells us of a friend and professional brother.

"He was saved from a horrible fate by the direct action of Providence. He had killed his body to a medical college, and he went to the South Sea Islands and was captured and eaten by cannibals!"

As a Stranger Sees Us.

There aren't many places where the baggage transfer companies are quite so cussed as they are in Pittsburgh. Once in New York I gave a boy the job of "toting" my grip from the Pennsylvania station to Times square, about five minutes' walk—and we walked. He wanted $1.05—the five cents was to pay his carfare back. Next to that, the meanest thing ever happened to me was when a Pittsburgh transfer company took all night to carry my trunk from a railroad station to a hotel, charged me 40 cents for what is done in any other town for 25 cents and, after forcing me to go without pajamas, charged me storage for keeping care of my trunk all night. Pretty rough, I call it.

Made Her Sleep in Stable.

That she was compelled to sleep in the stable with the horse while her husband corresponded with a matrimonial school seeking another wife was the testimony of Mrs. Lillie C. Fox, Muskogee, Okla., who is seeking a divorce.

FLASHES FROM THE HEADLIGHT

Bits of News Pertaining To The Soo and Northwestern Railroads

The Stevens Point Journal states that about a year ago a large number of employees of the Soo line bought about 21,000 acres of land in North Dakota, intending to hold it as an investment. The venture was called the Fertile Valley Land Company, and by a deal just completed the property has been sold and the stockholders have realized a neat profit.

Patrick, lately over, was working in the yards of a railroad. One day he happened to be in the yard office when the force was out. The telephone rang vigorously several times, and he at last decided it ought to be answered. He walked over to the instrument, took down the receiver and put his mouth to the transmitter, just as he had seen others do. "Hello!" he called. "Hello!" answered the voice at other end of the line. "Is this eight-six-one-five-nine?" "Aw, g'wan! Phwat eye tink of am? A box car?"

The Northwestern line is running its passenger trains on the Ashland division nearly on time this winter—a great improvement over the poor service of one year ago.

The telephone system for dispatching trains has been put into service on the Chicago division of the Soo line between Stevens Point and Minneapolis. Telephones for this purpose have been placed in thirty-one stations between the two above mentioned cities. The system is as near perfect as is possible to make it and the telephones will be used for dispatching only.

It is rumored that telephones may within a short time take the place of telegraph instruments for dispatching on this division of the Soo line, the Rhinelander station included.

After a trial lasting about two weeks, the jury in the case of Joseph LaVera against the Soo line brought in a verdict awarding the plaintiff $9,000 damages. La Vera sued for $75,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained by his minor son, while at work with a section crew at Hoyt last summer. He alleges that the son was made insane by a fall from a moving hand car. The case was one that attracted much interest throughout the middle west and was stubbornly fought by both sides. Many expert witnesses were called. The Soo line through its attorney, W. A. Hayes of Milwaukee, will move to set aside the verdict rendered because of errors in the trial.

The Modern Woodmen Society now has among its more than 15,000 Camp clerks a "Four Hundred," consisting of the Camp clerks who had transferred all their members to the new rates before the issuance of Judge Shirley's injunction restraining the Society from putting these new rates into effect. These clerks will receive gold medals. Many others had transferred nearly all their members when the injunction was issued.

INDIGESTION FIVE YEARS

Relieved by Vinol.

Strength and even life itself depends upon the nourishment and proper assimilation of food, and unless digestion is good, the whole body suffers.

Mrs. L. D. Cook, Vineland, N. J., says: "I was sick five years with indigestion. My stomach seemed to have a heavy load in it, and at other times it seemed to be tied in knots. Nobody knows how I suffered."

"I tried a great many doctors and a great many kinds of medicine, but nothing did any good until I took Vinol. It has helped me wonderfully. I am improving fast, feel better and am getting my flesh back again. Vinol has done me a world of good."

We know the great power of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, in curing chronic stomach trouble and building up all weakened, run-down persons, and that is why we guarantee to return your money if it does not help you.

SHOULD MILK A COW CLEAN

Operation Should Be Performed Twice Daily and Have Periods Divided Even as Possible.

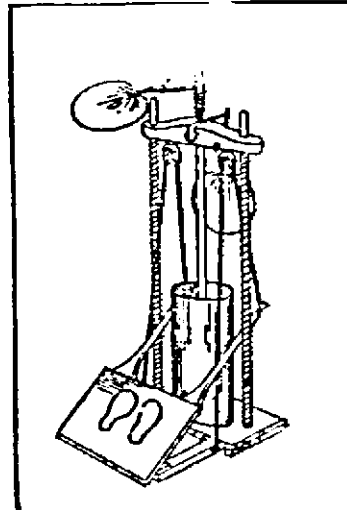

Probably no single cause tends more to check milk secretion than the failure to remove all the milk at the time of milking, says Hoard's Dairymen. The presence of even a little milk in the ducts may act as a powerful check on the secretion of fresh milk. Hence the extreme importance of clean milking; that is, milking the cow dry, which will be found one of the surest and best methods of prolonging the milk supply.

Generally twice a day is sufficient; and it is best to so arrange that the period mentioned is divided evenly into parts. There are certain animals which yield rather more by being milked oftener, such cases being indicated by an undue distention of the udder between milkings. The most important part to impress is the extreme necessity of regularity in the time of milking, for it has been ascertained by careful experiments that the difference of an hour may, and often does, make a difference of as much as nine per cent in the amount of milk yielded. Repeated irregularities of this kind soon tend to diminish the flow of milk permanently. Weighing the milk is the best means of registering the capabilities of a cow.

FOOTPOWER OPERATES CHURN

Movement Is Obtained That Is Partly Automatic and Keeps Dasher in Continuous Action.

A churn that is operated by footpower instead of by handpower has been patented by a Kentucky man. From a baseboard two upright poles rise and encircling these poles are coiled springs, rising almost to the tops. Resting on top of the springs is a crosspiece in which the dasher of the churn is fixed. Underneath the crossbar are pulleys, through which run ropes attached to the base and to the arms of the treadle. When the treadle is operated, the crosspiece is drawn down with the downward pressure of the foot and is forced upward

Foot Power Churn.

again by the spring. This results in a movement that is partly automatic and keeps the dasher in continuous action. Fans attached to the dasher also operate automatically to cool the contents of the churn. With this mechanism the person churning has his or her hands free for other work, such as peeling potatoes, etc.

DAIRY NOTES

Better have one good cow than two scrubs.

Turnips are a very good feed for dairy cows.

Hindus used butter for food 2,000 years before Christ.

A bit of old cream may spoil the whole batch of butter.

Silage will average about 40 pounds per cubic foot, in the silo.

Chips are cheaper than corn to warm the cow's drinking water.

The temperature at which milk separates best is about 90 degrees.

Life is a merry whirl for the "boarder" cow whose milk is tested.

Cream well cooled before shutting the cover down tight will keep better.

Clean hands, a clean cow, a clean barn, and a clean milk pail produces clean milk.

The Holstein breed was first heard of in the northern part of Holland 2,000 years ago.

The dairymen who put his corn stalks into a silo is not worrying about stalk disease.

In keeping cows remember that production will largely depend upon the comfort of the cow.

A good cow should never be put in the hands of a poor milker. It is sure to work disastrous results.

To keep the cream from splashing out of the dash churn try pinning a folded newspaper around the top.

Put a little bran in the bottom of the pail when the calf has drunk his milk, and he will readily learn to eat it.

It is a bad practice to let cream freeze. Besides being hard to churn it gives the cream an unnatural flavor.

FINE GUERNSEY DISPLAY

At Live Stock Exposition Madison, Feb. 3 and 6

The display of Guernseys which will be shown at the Wisconsin Live Stock Exposition to be held in Madison from February 3-6, will include a world's record breaker and a purple ribbon show ring winner. Charles L. Hill, president of the American Guernsey Cattle Club, who is assembling the exhibit of this Channel Island breed, has secured the loan of Jerry, a Guernsey grade which holds the world's record for the production of butter fat. The official record credited to her is 15,744 pounds of milk and 729.57 pounds of butter fat in one year or five times more than the amount annually produced by the average cow. Although bred by a Wisconsin breeder, Jerry is now owned by the Knickerbocker Ice Company of Chicago, who purchased her soon after her tour of upper Wisconsin on the More and Better Live Stock Special upon which she was exhibited. Glenwood Combination 5th, a Waukesha county sire, which has been accorded the premier honors at several important middle western fairs and expositions, will also be shown as a representative of this great breed. By presenting a superior display of the breed at this important exposition, Guernsey admirers confidently expect to still further develop the popularity of their breed.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

Very few people are so correct in their use of the English language that they do not need at some time to consult authoritative books on the subject. Such a book is the Writer's Desk Book by W. D. Orcutt. It contains classified rules for capitalization, punctuation, spelling, abbreviations, etc.; following in general the usage of the best publishing houses. These rules are comprehensive, clearly stated and amply illustrated. There are also chapters on faulty dictation, letter-writing and postal regulations, and an appendix containing such data as standard time, values of foreign coins, comparative thermometers, and weights and measures. More complete and satisfactory than any recent book.

Mathews—Log of the "Easy Way."
A delightful account of a leisurely honeymoon trip in a hundred dollar house-boat through the Chicago drainage canal, into the Illinois river and thence into the Mississippi down to New Orleans. The picture of the river dwellers—fishermen, bum-boat men, traders, doctors, showmen and nondescript shanty boat folk is unusual, accurate and full of the inexpressible charm of the Mississippi. Illustrated with photographs by the author.

Carrington—Fresh Air and How To Use It. A very comprehensive and valuable presentation of the latest and best methods by which to procure fresh air in the home. The book is full of practical suggestions prepared in the interests of the anti-tuberculosis crusade. It is of value from the standpoint of both prevention and cure, and aims to show how we may improve our health by using larger quantities of fresh air. Directions as to how to ventilate rooms adequately are followed by chapters on the uses of various forms of window tents, roof bungalows, wall houses and iron frame porches, temporary fresh-air porches, permanent sleeping porches and loggias, tents and tent houses open air bungalows and cottages, houses with open air apartments, and roof playgrounds for children, with chapter on clothing, bedding and furniture. Very fully illustrated with views, drawings, plans of houses and designs of furnishings.

The inventor of a special camera, says that among other uses for photography from the sky view point, land companies will be able to display aerial photographs of suburban development, merchants to advertise their location in a city. Lucrative Find in South Africa.
South Africa's possibilities as a producer of vegetable oils are wide indeed if the results of recent experiments under the auspices of the Mozambique authorities are translated into commercial realities. For instance, the fruit of the "macaranga" was shown to yield no less than 60 per cent of fine edible oil, and of the "pombula" 52 per cent.

Extremes.

She—What an awfully tall man Lord Lofly is! He—They say he's painful by short.

Destiny of America.
A nation is not a conglomeration of voters, to be represented by hungry politicians empowered to partition the spoils of office, but a people animated by a common impulse and seeking to work out a common destiny. The destiny of America is mutual service; labor is the corner stone of our nationality, the labor of each for all.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Even the Chanticleer.
Clarence was leaving early that night. The cuckoo had just sounded the eleventh hour. In the back yard the family rooster uttered a mauldin crow. "Clarence," called her father from an upper window, "will it trouble you to step around back of the house and throttle that rooster? He heard the door close and he thinks it's daylight."

To Freshen Air.
To freshen the air of a sickroom, ground coffee should be sprinkled on a shovel or coal-scoop previously heated in the fire. A match should then be held to a small piece of camphor-gum, and when this is alight it should be placed in the center of the shovel. The burning coffee gives an aromatic aroma to the room, which is very refreshing.

In Boston.
Talkative Shopper—"Don't you find that having to wait on so many fussy, disagreeable people has at least one compensation—that of making you forget your other troubles?" Cultured Saleslady—"Oh, yes—it acts as a counter irritant."—Judge.

YOU DON'T NEED A SHARP KNIFE TO make out meats appear tender. They are tender. Try them for New Year anyway. Then you'll have the memory of one day at least upon which you ate MEAT FIT FOR A KING.
Choose as you will a tender, juicy roast, a nut flavored ham or some toothsome poultry. Anything you buy at this market is bound to be the best to be had. Don't let all this high quality keep you away. It isn't accompanied by high prices.
